

ROYAL SIGNALS MUSEUM

INTERACTIVE COMMUNICATIONS SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

DISCOVER - the fascinating story of how communication evolved from lighting beacons to the mobile phone.

EXPLORE - our hands-on, family-friendly interactive displays: guide a laser beam, "direction find" the enemy, set up satellite networks.

LEARN - how to send Morse code or make and break codes.

FIND OUT - about Cyber Warfare and how to protect your self from identity theft.

Nestled in the beautiful countryside of North Dorset, in the attractive Edwardian town of Blandford Forum, this modern museum traces the history of the British Army's battlefield communications experts - The Royal Corps of Signals.

From the introduction of the telegraph in the Crimea War to the secretive story of cryptography and cyber warfare via espionage and satellites!

A UNIQUE EXPERIENCE for our visitors.
The Museum is located in Blandford Army camp.

Adults must bring
Photo ID
